

The Centre for Voluntary Sector Leadership (CVSL) at
The Open University Business School

Putting Leadership and Collaboration into practise in a changing voluntary sector

Thursday 22 March 2018 from 09:45 – 16:15 (followed by drinks and canapés reception).

To be held at The Open University, Walton Hall, Milton Keynes. View the campus map

TIME	ACTIVITY	PRESENTER
10:30	Keynote: 'Do we need different leaders for different types and sizes of organisation: exploring the dynamics of leadership in small and large third sector organisations.'	Dr Ann Limb CBE , Chair of the Scout Association
11:15	Organic leadership and voluntary organisations	Dr Owain Smolovic-Jones Senior Lecturer in People and Organisations
11:35	Documentary: An asylum seeker's story: Collective leadership in diverse communities, followed by panel q & a	Director: Joseph Mannion Producers: Kate Dangerfield, Vita Terry, Andrew Jolly
12:15	Progress on CVSL agenda and research	James Rees
12:45	Lunch	All
13:45	Keynote: Leadership & Collaboration: Challenges for Small Charities and Local Community Groups	Pauline Broomhead CBE , Founding CEO of the FSI
14:30-15:20 All running concurrently	Workshop 1 - Doing Leadership Development Online: the what, the why and the how? Lead by James Rees Link to bio http://business-school.open.ac.uk/people/jr24253
	Workshop 2 - Leadership for diverse societies: challenges and Opportunities Businesses and Public Institutions. Lead by Fidele Mutwarasibo
	Workshop 3 - Collaborative Leadership in Theory and Practice. Lead by Professor Siv Vangen http://business-school.open.ac.uk/people/sv379
15:45	Plenary and panel discussion
16:15	Drinks and canapés networking reception

An asylum seeker's story: Collective leadership in diverse communities.

Director: Joseph Mannion

Producers: Kate Dangerfield, Vita Terry, Andrew Jolly

The documentary tells the story of an asylum seeker in the UK, whose hope of securing safety and a better future for his family has been challenged, as they continually experience multiple barriers, from restricted entitlements, limited support and growing hostility. Five years on, the asylum seeker illustrates the important contribution migrants can have within communities, focusing on his experience of establishing ESOL classes at a time of shrinking service provision. These classes have benefited the community by building language capacity and also bringing diverse populations together to promote integration and cohesion.

Filmed in Smethwick in the West Midlands, the asylum seeker describes the everyday experiences of setting up the ESOL classes. With no financial income and limited resources, the asylum seeker's gathers the support of the community, by mobilising key individuals and resources. By instigating a shared vision, this spurs a process of actions and narrative, which creates collective leadership within the community. The documentary uses the process of filming to research leadership in non-traditional ways, capturing the importance of collective leadership as well as the individual leader, and how leadership can operate at different levels, using a non-hierarchical, bottom up approach.

