Putting Leadership and Collaboration into Practice in a Changing Voluntary Sector: Speaker
Thursday 22 March 2018

Dr Owain Smolović-Jones
Senior Lecturer in People Management and Organisation, The Open University Business School

Owain’s primary focus is teaching and researching the development of leadership in the public and voluntary sectors. His approach is political and ethical, particularly focusing on the power dynamics of learning and enacting leadership. Having written a number of publications, his work has sought to better understand the dynamics of leadership development programmes as well as the practice and conceptual underpinnings of leadership. Owain completed his PhD at Cranfield University under the supervision of Keith Grint, researching the political dynamics of public sector leadership development programmes. Prior to entering academia, he worked in communications for the Labour Party.
