Kirsty Bowman-Vaughan, Senior Policy Manager, Money Advice Service

Kirsty is the UK lead on financial capability for children and young people at the Money Advice Service.

This involves developing and delivering research and evaluation programmes to help organisations and practitioners deliver financial education programmes that make a difference, conducting work to understand the long-term impact of childhood financial capability on adult behaviour, and lots of persuasion to try to get new funders on board.

Kirsty is the only one of her family yet to work in a primary school being the child of an Inclusion Manager / SENCO and sister of a lunch time assistant.
