Is the world going quants mad? Lessons from financial experts and history.
Tuesday 5 June 2018

Professor Russell Napier

Professor Russell Napier is author of The Solid Ground investment report and co-founder of the investment research portal ERIC- www.eri-c.com He has worked in the investment business for twenty-six years and has been writing global macro strategy for institutional investors since 1995.

Russell is author of Anatomy of The Bear: Lessons From Wall Street’s Four Great Bottoms and founder and course director of the Practical History of Financial Markets at The University of Edinburgh. He is on the board of two listed investment trusts, a member of the Investment advisory committees of three fund management companies and an advisor to a family office.

In 2014 he founded the Library of Mistakes a business and financial history library in Edinburgh. Russell has degrees in law from Queen’s University Belfast and Magdalene College Cambridge is a Fellow of The CFA Society of the UK and is an Honorary Professor at both Heriot-Watt University and The University of Stirling.