

The Open University Business School

Alumni Council Vice-Chair

Nick Wilkinson

Chief Executive Officer; Strategist;
Entrepreneur; Advisor; Author

Area of Expertise: Executive Management,
IT, Strategic business planning,
Entrepreneurial development

Qualification: MBA

Nick is a senior business executive with extensive general management experience coupled with expertise in the global software and information technology services industry. Nick is also a published author with fictional works on the business world.

He has achieved success across the commercial spectrum: Fortune 150, private equity backed, privately-held and bootstrapped start-ups. Prior to this Nick served in the Royal Air Force as a Supply and Movements Officer for nine years.

Nick remains very interested in the 'academic' aspects of the business world, particularly in the area of strategy and the impact of digitisation on productivity and the future of work. Nick utilizes his career experience to guide and support the digital platform of the Alumni Council and the Business School.
